Key Takeaways

Adjustable cable tray supports typically range from $20 to $150 per unit, depending on type, material, and load capacity.

Adjustable cable tray supports are essential for securing cable trays in commercial and industrial installations. They include hanging supports, wall supports, floor supports, and stair supports, many of which are height-adjustable to accommodate different installation requirements (GroupSumi). These supports are designed to hold cable trays securely while allowing flexibility in positioning and height.

Price Range

- Light-duty adjustable supports: $20–$50 per unit, suitable for small cable trays or low-load applications (Amazon, McMaster-Carr).
- Medium-duty supports: $50–$100 per unit, often made of zinc-plated steel or aluminum, supporting moderate cable loads and offering corrosion resistance (RS Online).
- Heavy-duty or industrial-grade supports: $100–$150+ per unit, designed for high-load applications, long spans, or specialized installations such as stairways or ceilings (McMaster-Carr).

Factors Affecting Price

- Material: Stainless steel or corrosion-resistant coatings increase cost.

- Load capacity: Supports rated for higher weights are more expensive.
 - Adjustability: Height-adjustable or modular designs cost more than fixed supports.
 - Supplier and brand: Premium brands like Legrand, Schneider Electric, or Phoenix Contact may charge higher prices for quality and certifications (RS Online) .
 - Quantity and bulk orders: Purchasing in bulk can reduce per-unit cost.
- Purchasing Options

Suppliers such as GroupSumi, Amazon, RS Online, and McMaster-Carr offer a wide range of adjustable cable tray supports with same-day or next-day delivery options, allowing buyers to select based on load requirements, installation type, and budget . For precise pricing, it is recommended to check supplier websites or request a quote, as costs vary by size, material, and shipping location.
